DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY MEETING.

Call of the the Central Committee.

The Democratic Electors of Ashland County are requested to meet at their usual places of holding elections in their several townships, on Saturday, August 11, 1866,

for the purpose of voting for the nomination of the following officers to be elected at the October election, in Ashland county, to-wit:

One Auditor,
One Sheriff,
One Probate Judge,
One Clerk,
One Prosecuting Attorney,
One Commissioner,
One Infirmary Director.

Said election to be held in the following manner, to-wit: The voters present to elect one Clerk and two Judges, who shall make a poll book and tally list in the usual form adopted at State and County Elections. The polls to be opened at 9 o'clock A. M., and closed at 6 o'clock P. M. One of the Judges to carry the poll book to Ashland on Monday, the 13th day of August.

Said return Judges to constitute a board of canvassers to open and count the votes cast for each candidate—those having the highest number of votes for the respective offices to be declared by said board to be the nominees. A full attendance of the Democratic electors is earnestly requested.

THE JEFF DAVIS TRIAL.

RICHMOND, Va., June 5.—Judge Underwood, after consultation with General Terry, opened the United States Circuit Court this morning. Messrs. Reed, Bradley, Brown, Van Syckle, and Davis' counsel were present. Some delay occurred before the panel was complete. Judge Underwood delivered his charge, of which the following are the principal points: Gentlemen of the Grand Jury: I am happy to meet you again, and to know that you are still living, notwithstanding the assaults that have been made upon you. Little need be said in addition to the instructions given at Norfolk. Your last session has made you historical, and I trust efforts which have been made to intimidate you and impede the course of justice will not make you less faithful and earnest in the discharge of your public duties.

The Judge then referred in the severest terms to the press of Virginia and the City of Richmond for its share in the slave trade. Complaints of threatened violence and intimidation have been forwarded to me by several of your number. Your late heroic and patriotic actions have been submitted to the highest legal authorities of the Government, and I can assure you of the earnest sympathy and firm support of all the officers of the law, not even excepting the President, whom the reasonable now flatter and fawn upon, but whom many will probably soon curse as heartily as they did two years ago.

The Judge then recited the net punishing obstructions of justice. He charges them that they will have to exercise some restraint upon the Press, which has done so much to promote duels, assassinations, murders, &c., and concludes without any hint touching the famous treason trial as follows: But, Gentlemen, let us act with moderation and discrimination, for though a prostituted press is one of the greatest calamities, a free and virtuous press is one of the greatest public blessings and the greatest ornament, and the support of public officers.

The Grand Jury retired when Mr. W. B. Reed of Philadelphia thus addressed the Court:

May it please your honor, I beg to present myself in conjunction with my colleagues as the counsel of Jefferson Davis, a prisoner of State at Fortress Monroe, under indictment for high treason in your honor's court. We find in the records of your honor's court, an indictment charging Mr. Davis with this high offense, and it has seemed to us due to the course of justice, due to this tribunal, due to the feelings of one sort or another which may be described as crystallizing around the unfortunate man, that we should come at the very earliest day to this tribunal and ask of your honor, or more properly the gentlemen who represent the United States, the simple question: What is proposed to be done with this indictment? Is it to be tried? Is it to be suspended? Is it to be withdrawn? or is it to be suspended? If it is to be tried, may it please your honor, speaking for my colleagues and myself, and for the absent client, I say with emphasis, I say earnestly, that we come here prepared instantly to try that case, and we shall ask no delay at your Honor's hands further than is necessary to bring the prisoner to face the court and to enable him under the statute in such cases made and provided to examine the bill of indictment against him. Is it to be withdrawn? If so, justice and humanity seem to urge us, to prompt us, that we should know it. Is it to be suspended—postponed? If so, may it please the court with all respect to your honor and the gentlemen who conduct the public business here, your honor must understand us as entering our most earnest protest. We ask a speedy trial on any charge that may be brought against M. Davis, here or in any other civil tribunal in the land. We may now be here representing, may it please the court, a dying man who for thirteen months has been in prison. The Constitution of the United States guarantees to have not only an impartial trial, which I am sure he will have, but a speedy trial, and we have come no slight distance. We have come with all respect to your honor. We have come with strong sympathies with our client, professional and personal. We have come here simply to ask the questions—I address it to the District Attorney, or I address it to your honor as may be the most appropriate. What disposition is proposed to be made with the bill of indictment against Jefferson Davis, now pending for high treason?

LATER.
[Special Dispatch to the Cincinnati Enquirer.]

WASHINGTON, June 10, 1866.

All the paragraphs about an application being made and now pending before the President for the bail or parole of Jeff. Davis, are without the slightest foundation in truth. The President would have nothing to do in the disposition of the matter under the indictment. But the counsel of Davis have applied to Chief Justice Chase for a writ of habeas corpus to bring the prisoner before the court under the indictment found at Norfolk, and urge that bail be accepted and their client released from imprisonment until his case shall be called for trial in October.

Judge Chase has steadily declined to issue the writ, and intimated that the of fender charged in the indictment is not bailable.

A attorney-general Speed was of the opinion that it is bailable a offense.

The counsel then sought Judge Underwood for the purpose of obtaining the writ, but up to this time the decision of Judge has not been made known, and it is not expected he will issue the writ.

Messrs. Greely, Stahl and Vanderbilt are offered as surety on Davis' bail-bond. Some of these sureties are here. Mr. Greely left for New York to-night.

The President has been consulted only to know whether Mr. Davis will be placed in custody of the civil authorities at once, should either of the Judges will signify their willingness to issue the habeas corpus. The President is ready to hand Mr. Davis over at any moment the Judges signify their willingness to take charge of the prisoner.

It is said that a majority of the Cabinet are in favor of Jeff. Davis being paroled, and it was so far arranged that the amount fixed as the required security was $250,000.

The Fenians.

The Fenian leaders have been arrested; the Fenian army disbanded, and the Fenian soldiers are returning to their homes.

The demon Probst, who murdered the eight persons composing the Deering family, was executed last Friday in Philadelphia.

There were 262 deaths in Cincinnati during the month of May.

There were two severe shocks of an earthquake in California on the 5th.

The Fenian Canadian enterprise for the present is at an end. General Sweeney, Commander-in-Chief of the Fenian army, has been arrested and is in the custody of United States authorities. President Roberts is in the same condition.

BRIDGE NOTICES.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Commissioners of Ashland County, O., will offer to the lowest responsible bidder the building of the following Bridges at the times and places following, to-wit: On Monday, the 18th day of June, 1866, at 10 o'clock A. M., the building of a small Bridge near the Rochester Mills in Lake Township.
